Seven Hundred and Fifty Patients in the Building at the Time—A Terrible Panic and Scenes of Horror—Lunatics Escape Over the Country—Damage $25,000.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Every Wednesday night for years it has been the custom for the patients of the Cleveland Insane Asylum to have a dance, and that evening is always looked forward to with great interest by all who are able to participate in the festivities. Last night there were 850 in the ball room when the fatal cry of "fire" was raised. A wild stampede followed, the men bolting for the entrance to their apartments, and the women for theirs on the opposite side of the room. The men got out safely, but some of the weaker women were trampled under foot and overcome by smoke and fire.

Mr. Long, the attendant in the women's department, opened the windows of the ball room to drive the smoke out, but more of it seemed to pour in. When he could no longer endure it he rushed to the chapel where the women were huddled together moaning, without enough presence of mind to go to the floor below. He very quickly led them out, and in a moment the door of the chapel fell in. Dr. Carpenter and others carried out the suffocating women, one of whom was so unmanageable that she was dropped on a shed roof and has not since been seen.

Six bodies were found, and three were seriously injured.

The men in Ward 1 were transferred to the ground floor, but when an attempt was made to transfer the women, many of them escaped and ran toward the city. Residents of Newburg, as this part of Cleveland is called, had a similar experience in 1872. Whenever a demented person was found in the streets she was taken to the Miles Park Presbyterian church. Seventeen were caught and were taken to the asylum in carriages.

The names of the dead are:
Mrs. Margaret Pitts.
Miss Jennie B. Hall.
Miss Eveline Scribner.
Mr. Charlotte Knowlton.
Two unrecognizable.

The injured are Mrs. Caroline Knowlton, cousin of Charlotte, perhaps fatally; Miss Jane Black and Miss Mary Ogil.

The two unrecognizable bodies were found after the fire had subsided a trifle closely locked in each other's embrace. They were so charred that they resembled charcoal. The doctors believe that the dead were all suffocated before they were burned. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is thought to have started from a new heating apparatus.

The Cleveland asylum is on the south side of the city and is owned by the state. It contained 750 patients.

The fire started in the laundry, a one-story building, which adjoins the wing in which the chapel is located. The prompt response and active work of the firemen prevented a disastrous spread of the flames, and the loss of property will fall below $25,000. Had the fire occurred on any other night of the week there would have been no loss of life.

The attendants at the asylum organized a search party shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, and the premises in the vicinity of the smoldering ruins were inspected. Near the shed in the rear of the amusement hall, were found the remains of a woman. Her face was badly blackened, and she had evidently succumbed to the suffocating smoke. The attendants could not identify the body and it was placed in the hall with the remains of the other victims.

This raises the total number of casualties to seven. No other bodies were found, but Newburg is full of rumors that a search of the ruins will disclose a greater mortality than has yet been reported. The work of clearing away the debris will be commenced as soon as possible.

All night long demented inmates who had wandered away, were searched for. Some of these people, driven to it by the cold, applied for admission to houses in the Iron ward, where they were detained until the arrival of the police, or the asylum attendants.

Briefs in the Sealing Vessels Seizure.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 14.—The government has received from Sitka copies of the brief filed in court there by counsel for the United States in regard to the seizure of sealing vessels in Behring sea. The ground is taken that Behring sea is included in the boundaries of the territory ceded to the United States by Russia, and is practically an inland sea, and that the United States has sole jurisdiction there. The document is a long one and quotes fully from authorities on international law to sustain the position taken. The history of Russian title to the territory in that neighborhood is recited, and the treaty between Russia and the United States ceding the same is set out at length. The appeal of the defense to the United States supreme court takes the contrary view, holding that Russia had no such rights as claimed, and consequently could not grant them away, and Behring sea is therefore regarded as part of the ocean.

New Mexican Irrigating Scheme.

SANTA FE, N. M., Oct. 14.—Articles of incorporation for a gigantic irrigation enterprise in the central Rio Grande valley were filed at the office of the territorial secretary yesterday. The corporation is to be known as the Albuquerque Land and Water company. The enterprise contemplates the irrigation of a million and a half acres of the most choice fruit and farming lands in the central Rio Grande valley. The water supply is to come from the Rio Grande.

He Went Without the Cup.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Mr. James Bell, vice commodore of the Royal Clyde Yacht club, and principal owner of the Thistle, bade farewell to his defeated yacht yesterday and sailed for Europe on the steamship City of Rome. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Bell, Commodore Clark, Dr. Donald, Mr. Challenger, Mr. and Mrs. Hallard, Mr. York and Mr. Watson. The Thistle will sail for Glasgow to-day.

DESTRUCTIVE FOREST FIRES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—For the past four days forest fires have been raging in Sonoma, Alameda, San Mateo, and Santa Cruz counties, all in the vicinity of the Bay of San Francisco. Reports from various towns in these counties report the fire raging fiercer than ever. In Alameda thirteen miles have been swept clean. Several fine farms have been completely consumed. The ground is covered with carcasses of all kinds of dead animals. In San Mateo several bridges and single mills have been leveled to the ground; in Santa Cruz two box mills have been destroyed. The fire has swept valuable farms out of existence, and thousands of cords of wood have been consumed. From Sonoma comes the worst report. The flames have traveled ten miles in the past twenty-four hours and devastated everything in their path. Many families have been made homeless. Miles upon miles of timber and vineyards have been destroyed. Hundreds of men are out fighting the fire in the counties. The loss will be immense.

Cold-Blooded Murderer on Trial.

WARSAW, Ind., Oct. 14.—The trial before Judge Onda of Joseph Plew, the murderer of Henry Dunham and child, last winter is well under way. Mrs. Dunham, who has been confined to her room from the cruel beating she received at the time, was able to give her testimony, her reason having returned to her but a few weeks since. She testified that on the 8th day of last February Joseph Plew, John Ferrin and John Hand were in the sitting room with her husband and baby, when she left them and went to the summer kitchen to prepare to do the milking. While there something struck her on the head and she felt what she supposed to be water running down her back. She was stooping at the time, and raised up and put her hand to her head to ascertain the cause, when she saw Plew standing near her. She lost consciousness from that time and remained in that state for several days. The evidence throughout the trial is very damaging to Plew. The court room is crowded daily.

It Was Gunpowder.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—A building association met Tuesday night in Philip Reichwein's place, as was the rule, and the collection, which numbered several hundred dollars, were placed in Reichwein's safe. Yesterday morning it was discovered that a gang of burglars had attempted to open the safe, but after boring the lock and inserting the powder, the game was flushed in some way and the job was not finished. Charles Gorsuch, an expert, was called to repair the same, and after considerable trouble succeeded in forcing the door, and as it swung back a quantity of powder dropped to the floor. A fool hy-stander, stooping down over Gorsuch, touched his finger to the stuff to make sure it was powder, and the explosion following hurled Gorsuch to one side several feet away, knocking him insensible and terribly burned his face and neck, also injuring his eyes. There is fear that his sight will be permanently impaired. The fool by-stander as may be expected escaped unhurt.

Employing Printers' Convention.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—An international convention of the employing printers of the United States and Canada will convene in Chicago on Tuesday, October 18, for the purpose of devising plans for united action upon the recent demand of the International Typographical union that nine hours shall constitute a day's labor. Other important matters will be presented for the consideration of the convention. This convention is called in accordance with the request of many influential firms and organized bodies of employing printers throughout the country, it being the belief that there should be an interchange of opinion and the adoption of a wise policy in dealing with the important questions of the trade.

Result of a Practical Joke.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Oct. 14.—Herman Ehrlich was shot and killed late Tuesday night by Policeman Owen. The two men were friends, and Ehrlich was attempting to play a practical joke on the officer by pretending to be a burglar. He jumped out of a doorway as the policeman approached and ran up the street. Owen ordered him to halt, but he continued to run, and Owen fired, the ball entering Ehrlich's head and causing instant death.

A VISIT TO KANSAS CITY.THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY IN THE METROPOLIS OF KANSAS.

They Meet With the Same Kind of a Reception That They Have Met With in the Other Cities Visited—The President and Wife Have a Narrow Escape.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 14.—The president's train arrived here at 8:15 last night. A delegation consisting of the ten gentlemen composing the committee on arrangements, headed by Mr. E. H. Allen, proceeded to Waldron, fifteen miles north of here, and joined the party. At the depot and for blocks around an immense crowd had gathered, and a roar of cheers went up as the train slowly puffed in on the siding nearest the street. The police arrangements were admirable, and the party were in carriages and on their way on Union avenue fifteen minutes after the arrival of the train.

What might have been a serious accident occurred just before the party reached the hotel. At Ninth and Broadway two cable trains were standing close to each other. The cable had broken during the day, and the strands had been wrapped around the wire. The grip of the second car became entangled in the threads which were wound around the grip so firmly as to start the second train in motion. It crowded into the street and pushed the car into the thick crowd, injuring several of them seriously. The president's carriage was only about twenty feet beyond the track when this happened, else his safety and that of his wife would have been imperiled. Four persons were seriously injured by the accident.

Shortly before 9 o'clock this morning a committee called upon the president and Mrs. Cleveland, and after paying their respects escorted the distinguished visitors and their traveling companions to the ladies' entrance, where carriages were waiting for a drive through the principal streets of the city. When the Young Men's Christian association building was reached the members of the presidential party alighted, it having been arranged that the executive should take part in laying the cornerstone of this new edifice.

The ceremonies at the Young Men's Christian association were very simple and impressive. Upon being introduced to the multitudes surrounding the new edifice, President Cleveland addressed his fellow citizens as follows:

"In the busy activities of our daily life we are apt to neglect instrumentalities which are quietly but effectually doing most important service in moulding our National character, among these and challenging but little notice, compared with their valuable results, are the Young Men's Christian associations scattered throughout our country. All will admit the supreme importance of that honesty and fixed principle upon which rests christian motives and purposes and all will acknowledge the sad and increasing temptations which beset our young men and lure them to their destruction. To save these young men, often times deprived of the restraints of home, from degradation and ruin, and to fit them for usefulness and honor, these associations have entered the field of Christian effort and are pushing their noble work. When it is considered that the subjects of their efforts are to be the active men for good or evil to the next generation, more worldly prudence dictates that these associations should be aided and encouraged. Their increase and flourishing condition reflect the highest honor upon the good men who have devoted themselves to this work and demonstrated that the American people are not entirely lacking in appreciation of its value. Twenty years ago but one of these associations owned a building and that was valued at only $11,000. To-day more than one hundred such buildings, valued at more than $300,000 beautify the different cities of our land and beckon our young men to lives of usefulness. I am especially pleased to be able to participate to-day in laying the corner stone of another of these edifices in this active and growing city and I trust that the encouragement given the Young Men's Christian association located here may be commensurate with its assured usefulness and in keeping with the generosity and intelligence which it characterizes the people of Kansas City."

After the president had concluded his remarks and performed the ceremony of adjusting the corner stone, the Kansas City Light cavalry led the president and his suite on the drive through the city. The presidential party, on the return trip, reached the Coates house at half-past 11 o'clock, where an elaborate lunch was served.

The scenes along the route of the drive were interesting and demonstrative, but very orderly. In fact, the best of order prevailed throughout. The party during the outing were driven around the new National Agricultural exposition building and briefly viewed the structure. The management endeavored to have the president and Mrs. Cleveland enter the building, but the committee in charge determined that there was not sufficient time. Hurrahs for the president were given as the procession of carriages passed through the exposition grounds. As the drive was made around the bluff overlooking the railroads it seemed that a thousand steam whistles had been awaiting their opportunity to screech out a welcome to the city guests. Their monotonous noise continued until the party passed out of sight.

The president and his party remained here until 11 o'clock at night, when the start was made for Memphis.

Testing the Dow Law.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—A joint suit was filed in the common pleas court to-day by Joseph Roell and 1,000 others, all saloonkeepers of Hamilton county, to recover from the county commissioner $4,051.50, paid by the saloon men as Dow tax penalty in 1886. Separate suits were begun by David La Kaut, also a saloonkeeper, to recover $480 Dow tax penalty. Both are test cases.

Safe-Blowing.

BROWNSTOWN, Ind., Oct. 14.—The safe in Dr. Joseph A. Stillwell's drug store was blown open with gunpowder and robbed of $50 in cash. No clue to the perpetrators.

NO ONE RESPONSIBLE.An Interview With the Coroner in Relation to the Kouts Horror.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—A special, from Valparaiso, Ind., says: The coroner, Dr. A. Letherman, was seen after his return from the inquest of the Kouts victims. In reference to insinuations that he was endeavoring to conceal the extent of the disaster, he said that he had nothing to say. "They are not worth attention. I suppose the writer was angry because I would not give him a verdict which I have not yet rendered. I have not rendered a verdict exonerating the officers and employees of the road, positively not. I will not give my verdict till to-morrow, or perhaps later—when I have thoroughly examined the evidence of all the witnesses examined at Kouts and Huntington, which I have reduced to writing. The statement that I am completely in the hands of the railroad officials and that my verdict must necessarily be a pro-railroad one, is positively false. The railroad officials rendered no every assistance possible in my investigations, and instead of being in their hands they were everywhere subject to my commands. I have no fault to find with the officials in my investigations, but the very contrary."

In regard to the jury law of Indiana he said: "The coroner's juries have long since been abolished. The coroner has the sole power to investigate and render a verdict."

"Do you still maintain that there were only nine bodies consumed?" continued the reporter.

"Yes, I am positive of that, and the conductor's checks, which were examined in my presence at Huntington, confirm my first decision. There were on the train, when the accident occurred, twenty-five or twenty-six, as far as I have been able to ascertain, and I believe this correct."

"Do you not think it was criminal recklessness to run a passenger train with a disabled engine, followed so closely by a fast freight?"

"I am not prepared to say as to that, but I think it is a common practice with engineers, to complete their runs when disabled, as was the passenger engine in this instance."

"You, then, blame no one in particular for this horror, and think that the dense fog prevailing at the time was the real cause of the accident?"

"Yes."

This concluded the interview, but from a general conversation afterward with the coroner it could be inferred that this verdict will not hold either the trainmen or officials responsible.

Repairing the Track.

KOUTS, Ind., Oct. 14.—The work of repairing the track at the scene of the wreck is being rapidly pushed, and the ties which were hurled into thin strips of charcoal have been removed, and sound ones put in their stead.

"It is marvelous to me," said Dr. McClure, "that there haven't been more accidents on this road, so carelessly have things been managed. Why, until this Chateaufort disaster scared the Atlantic's folks so that they put in sound ties along the road, you might almost pull the spikes out of the rotten ties along the track."

For about a mile this side of the water tank the ties are rotten now, but the company is replacing them with new ones.

Whatever the coroner may say the responsibility for the horror is fixed upon the conductor of the passenger train for depending on a semaphore light and not sending back a brakeman with a lantern and torpedoes, and the engineer of the freight train, who failed through carelessness to see the semaphore light. As for it being too foggy to see, that is all talk. It was not foggy Monday night at midnight.

DETECTIVE HULLIGAN'S MURDERERS.

Another One, Believed to be Harry McMunn, Under Arrest—Morgan's Trial.

RAVENNA, O., Oct. 14.—Another one of the noted desperadoes who murdered Detective Hulligan at this place is thought to be in the clutches of the law. Acting on information received here by the officials yesterday, Detective Lohrer was dispatched to Youngstown to identify, if possible, a man in custody there for stealing $3,000 worth of diamonds. He gave his name as Thomas Kennedy, but is supposed to be the noted desperado and criminal, Harry McMunn.

The trial of "Blinky" Morgan was resumed in the common pleas court at 9 o'clock this morning, as per adjournment on Monday. The special venire of forty-two men drawn were on hand, much to the surprise of all. The defense made no argument for a continuance and it now looks as if the jury would be drawn in a couple of days. The second man called was placed in the box. Upon adjournment at noon nine men had been examined. Out of these four were chosen as jurors. The court room is crowded.

Confessed to Defaulting $73,000.

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Conn., Oct. 14.—The defalcation of R. S. Hicks, cashier of the Stafford National bank, will exceed $100,000, but the exact amount will not be known until returns are made from various New York and Boston banks. It was Hicks' method to falsify the books so as to show excessive amounts due from those banks. Bank Examiner Forman, of Illinois, was transferred to this district in September to investigate matters, and he discovered the defalcation. Hicks confesses having taken $73,000. The bank's capital is $200,000, and surplus $24,000. The discovery causes a great local sensation, owing to Hicks' prominence.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 14.—Arnold Mohler, a farmer thirty-two years old, living about fifteen miles northeast of Perham, Minn., was murdered in cold blood at his house at half-past six o'clock yesterday evening by John Adams, a neighboring farmer, and his wife. The cause is supposed to be an old feud. Kohler leaves a wife and four children. Adams was arrested yesterday while attempting to escape on a train, and was taken to the county jail at Detroit, Minnesota.

New Schemes to Carry Mail.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The Boston News Bureau says a company is forming in Boston to transport the mails between the post-office and the railroad stations by means of "Telpherage," or cars running on elevated cables by electricity.

It there was only a united effort made to boom Maysville wonderful changes would be seen in the course of a few years.

The Baptists of Kentucky in 1840 numbered 49,000, while in 1887 the membership of that denomination has reached 120,000.

The Enquirer gives the following as the Republican doctrine in Ohio—"Abolish the tax on whisky and increase the tax on farmers."

FORAKER tells the Ohio Republicans they must pay close attention to their State ticket, and Sherman appeals to them to look to their Legislators. Between the two there is apt to be some fun on election-day.

COLONEL FRED GRANT does not seem to be sailing over smooth seas into the office of Governor of the great State of New York. The Freeman, the leading organ of the colored people of that State, is fighting him, and gives its reasons for doing so in the following terse language:

"We are opposed to Fred Grant because we believe it bad policy to give the son prominence on the strength of the father's money or reputation. In this republic, every tub should stand on its own bottom, and if Colonel Fred Grant's tub has any bottom to it he has done nothing to show that such is the case."

"I predict, and want you to bear in mind, that, by the close of this century, Kentucky will realize more progress, and see development and wealth than has been seen anywhere since the discovery of gold in California."

The above remark was made only a day or two since to Governor Buckner by Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Kelley is one of the most prominent men of the day, and has taken great interest in the "new South." He is a close observer of things and is not given to idle talk. He realizes that a wonderful boom has been inaugurated in Kentucky. And the effect of this boom will revolutionize the State in a few years.

SPRING is a little place of eight hundred inhabitants out in the western part of Kansas. There is not a saloon in the town, but a party whose name we withhold, in renewing her brother's subscription to the BULLETIN, writes:

While the population at Spring is only eight hundred, there are seven drug stores, and no physician nearer than eight miles, and yet these drug stores are all doing a good business, notwithstanding the excellent health the people are enjoying. This is a strange fact.

Our correspondent will not think so strangely of the above fact, when she hears of the Kansas drug clerk who was sent to jail for seventeen years for selling whisky out of a soda fountain.

Stock and Corps.

Wheat is growing finely and looks very promising in Scott County.

Cholera has killed 500 hogs in Henry County, Ill., in the past three weeks.

The Danville (Ky.) Advocate reports a large area of wheat sown recently in Boyle County.

Receipts of hogs at Chicago for the past nine months exhibit 1,014,000 decrease, but cattle and sheep each exhibit 250,000 increase.

Handover, the son of Hindoo, added $2,780 to his winnings the last race he won, which now amounts to $78,805.50 gross for the year.

At the annual public sale of Shorthorn cattle in Bourbon County on the 12th, at Mr. H. C. Buckner's, forty well-bred young Marys sold for an average of $120.

Forty-four thoroughbred horses were sold at Lexington on the 11th for $10,945, an average of $248. On the 12th thirty-four head were sold for $17,125, an average of $503.

An undefined but fatal disease is reported as killing the stock of farmers near Keene, Jessamine County. George W. Goode lost four fine mules in one day. Some farmers regard it as the work of stock poisoners.

Colonel T. S. Moberly, the Shorthorn breeder, does not think it possible that Shorthorns can ever again reach anything like their old prices, but thinks there is a fair, legitimate profit in the production of the best varieties.

This year's wool-clip, according to the figures and estimates of the Philadelphia Textile Association, is 261,000,000 pounds, including 209,000,000 pounds unwashed and 52,000,000 pounds washed, as against 282,000,000 pounds reported from the same source last year. This statement shows a falling off of 21,000,000 pounds as compared with 1886, and a loss of 33,000,000 pounds since 1884.

A "BOSS" AND A KING.

Ex-Senator Mahone Receives Advice from the "King of the Budees."

One of the most amusing spectacles seen at Monmouth Park the other day was that of ex-Senator Mahone, of Virginia, and Gen. Roger A. Pryor, holding a confab with Mr. E. Berry Wall. The ex-senator resembles, in the exuberant eccentricity of his dress, a cross between a Seventeenth century Hollander and a backwoods Virginia farmer of the present day. He is exceedingly diaphanous looking and weighs something over ninety-five pounds. The cut of his funnel shaped collar creates speculation in the minds of the beholders as to where under the sun it could have been manufactured, and the fluting around his trousers pockets challenges the admiration of all who admire bouffant drapery. Gen. Pryor towered above the little Virginian as the leaning tower does above the dwellings of Pisa. Locked, arm in arm, they strolled about, the cynosure of many eyes, until that well known gentleman, E. Berry Wall, incased in his immaculate costume, happened to meet them. The languid Brummell placed his glass to his left eye and scanned the politician's attire with wonder. Gen. Pryor introduced the distinguished men and the conversation turned on horse racing. Gen. Pryor suggested it would be safe to bet on Firenz.

"Ah, no, take Lady Primrose, she is the winner," spoke up Mr. Berry Wall.

Gen. Mahone became interested and stroked his hair as if getting ready to make a speech in the senate. He looked at Mr. Wall with an expression of mingled skepticism and hilarity. The shoes of Mr. Wall, glossy and reflecting the long beard of the ex-senator, caught his eyes, and then slowly the inspection continued until Mr. Wall's face was reached. Then the Virginia Republican "boss" shut one eye and spoke in that sharp, squeaking tone of his which Nat Goodwin, with all his versatility, could never hope to imitate: "Y-e-s, Meester Wall, that is a good tip, a good tip, but I won't indulge in any betting today."

Gen. Pryor stood like a colossus between the two men and enjoyed the glow, quaint talk of Mr. Mahone and the curious accent of Mr. E. Berry Wall.

When the two Virginians parted from Mr. Wall they gazed at each other for some minutes, as if they desired to remember how each was dressed on the great occasion.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Cutting Down Expenses.

"Pullem," said a Dakota real estate agent, in a town which is enjoying a boom, to his partner, "I closed the deal with that man from Philadelphia."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, he takes the five lots, and pays $10,000. Let's figure up and see how we came out on them."

"Well, they cost us $1,000."

"Yes, and it took about $200 to treat and entertain that man from Chicago whom we tried to sell to."

"And I let the St. Paul man beat me out of $300 at poker in the hope of selling to him."

"Then I cashed a bogus draft of $250 for that man from New York, and then he skipped out without buying."

"Then that Iowa man took up two days of our time at $50 a day."

"Yes, and said he wanted to think about it before buying. And then the St. Louis man I took home to dinner with me, he stole silverware to the value of $15 and skipped like the rest."

"And I paid a $10 drunk and disorderly fine for the Milwaukee man."

"We mustn't forget to figure in about $50 for lively bills."

"No, nor $25 for spending half a day to go to church with that Boston man."

"And put down $100 for advertising and $50 that I had to pay Jones for keeping still when he accidentally overheard me tell this man we sold to that the marsh just behind the lots was an artificial lake put in by the city at a cost of $30,000."

"Let's see—total $2,050—profits $7,950. That won't hardly do—we've got to make more than that."

"Yes, we must cut down expenses on the next deal somewhere. I guess we had better not spend time going to church with any more men."—Dakota Bell.

Stephens' Ambition.

"It seems strange that men who achieved great success in a particular sphere should believe that their fort lay in another direction, and yet they frequently do," was the remark of a well known gentleman yesterday. "There was the late Governor Stephens, who reached a high plane as a statesman and author, and who, certainly, was considered a successful man with a successful career; yet Mr. Stephens always thought that he had missed his calling. He frequently spoke about his mistake, as he was pleased to call it, and while there were few in his lifetime who would have agreed with him, he nevertheless was honest and sincere about the matter."

"What did he think he should have tried?" asked one of the party. "Why, nothing less than the science of war. Mr. Stephens thought he was admirably fitted to command a large army, that his talents lay in the way of strategy, maneuvering and military finesse. He often hinted that Confederate campaigns might have resulted differently had he engineered them. Of course, he was aware that he lacked the physical capacity to put in execution his ideas. His intention was that with some one to execute the plans he developed and shaped, great success would follow. I do not know that this peculiarity was generally known, but it was true of the 'old commoner,' as he liked to be called."—Atlanta Constitution.

Dangerous Tasks That Must be Done.

In ministering to the wants of the majority of mankind, the ministrants are often called upon to discharge dangerous tasks. The unarmed policeman, for example, is expected to tackle the armed burglar, and to his credit be it said that he usually fulfills the expectation; the bricklayer works at a dizzy height, while the boy and maid of all work must brace their nerves sufficiently to be able to clean the outside of a third or fourth story window, whether the feat be performed by standing on a narrow sill or parapet, or sitting on the sill with sash drawn down to the lap. The discharge of each of these duties has now proved fatal; but in defense of them this can at least be urged—they are not risks wantonly run, and are encountered in the exercise of legitimate callings. In some cases, too, the "steepie Jack" is of use, though many of his perilous ascents are simply sensational. The steepie chase jockey and the colt breaker are men whom insurance offices would probably not insure ordinary rates; though they, like the people afore mentioned, risk their necks and their lives in the prosecution of generally accepted callings.

A TYPICAL COUNTY VILLAGE.

Germantown Sized Up by a "Commercial Tourist."

A "commercial tourist," signing himself "Grip-Slinger," has recently visited Germantown, and writes to the Cincinnati Telegram as follows:

It was twelve miles from Maysville and twelve from Augusta, and the only way to reach it was by bus, as no railroad or river is near it. We arrived there about 8 p. m., tired, and sought the only hotel in the place. After supper, which consisted of chicken, ham and eggs, corn bread, biscuits, coffee and cold cakes, we took in the town. It has only one street, and that has several names, such as Broadway, Main, Water (why we wonder) and Hungry Hill.

We met the Postmaster, a very Christially-like young man. We concluded to go serenading. We went. At every house we "got something," as the boys say. But one mistake was made. At one house "Mr. Jim," who had joined our quiet party, started off on "White Wings," and he either got hung on one of the high tenor notes or a fence. We couldn't say which. Anyway his pants were patched with pins the next morning. We sampled some apple brandy. It was the best we ever put our lips to. Next morning we drummed the town after breakfast and found out that the only thing to look for was the bus leaving in the morning and its return that night. Christmas and the fair found two parakeet boards running in full blast right on the main street. They played all day.

The town has a population of 400. A nice, clever set of gentals take it easy but don't rouse me people can't be found in all of old Kentucky. Every body friendly, and Saturday night male hideous by "the boys." But they don't say a word. And it's a strictly local option town. We want to be there to the fair. Go, you will never regret it. You will meet people in all costumes and of all kinds.

ELDER JOHN ALLEN GANO, died at his residence near Centerville, Bourbon Co., at six o'clock this morning, aged 82 years. He was one of the pioneer preachers of the Christian Church in this State, and assisted Barton W. Stone and others in the great revivals of the church, at Caneyville, this county. Burial at his residence to-morrow at 2 p. m.

"Fools Rush In, Where Angels Fear to Tread."

So impetuous youth is often given to folly and indiscretions; and, as a result, nervous, mental and organic debility follow, memory is impaired, self-confidence is lacking; at night bad dreams occur, premature old age seems settling in, ruin is in the track. In confidence, you can, and should write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the author of a treatise for the benefit of that class of patients, and describe your symptoms and sufferings. He can cure you at your home, and will send you full particulars by mail.

GERMANTOWN FAIR.

Pleasant Weather, Good Attendance and Fine Exhibition of Stock on Second Day.

LIST OF PREMIUMS AWARDED.

The second day of the fair was well attended. The weather was pleasantly cool, there was no dust and the sun shone brightly. This was saddle horse day, and the rings were well filled and closely contested. There were no walk-overs, the winner had to be a hustler.

A number of fine lunches were spread to-day by the neighboring farmers, who entertained their guests in royal style.

The BULLETIN representative and thirty-five others were bountifully dined by President Frazee and his accomplished lady, daughter of the late Dr. Robinson.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded:

SADDLE HORSES.
Stallion, 4 years old or over, Caldwell & Howe, Nicholas.

Stallion, 3 years and under 4, A. G. Jones, Bourbon.

SEVENTEEN hundred spring lambs were shipped last week from the Clay farm in Nicholas and Fleming counties. This was the largest shipment of that class of stock ever made by one person in Kentucky.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., is on the line of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad, but the place is suffering from a coal famine. The article is so scarce that several loads of it hauled from Lexington in wagons sold at 25 cents a bushel. Really, what is the good of having a railroad, if it can not keep a town in any more comfortable fix than that?

GOVERNOR BUCKNER has appointed as delegates to the Centennial Exposition of the Ohio Valley and Central States, to be held in Cincinnati July, 1888, Messrs. John R. Proctor, Thomas E. Moss, John F. Hagar, Matt Walton, M. J. King, Robert C. Hemingway, Frank P. Helm and Young E. Allison. Judge Walton, mentioned in the above list, is an ex-citizen of this county.

THE members of Plymouth Baptist Church will in a few days complete the work of fitting up the old Presbyterian Chapel, on Second street, Fifth ward, recently purchased from the Amazon Fire Company. Some repairs have been made, and the pews are being put in place. The new church will be opened next Sunday, with services conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. M. Jamison.

FOR the information of sportsmen we will state that the game law does not permit quail shooting in this State until the 20th instant, yet notwithstanding there are lots of birds being killed. According to the law any person caught killing or trapping these birds before October 20 shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $50 nor less than $10. There is also a penalty of $3 for each bird exposed for sale.

IN the Supreme Court the following cases have been submitted for trial: Shafer against the Commonwealth and Kennon against Tolle, from this county; Richie against Herndon and the Commonwealth against Banta, from Nicholas. The case of Stone against Stone from Nicholas has been continued for oral argument. The case of Wells against Best from this county has been continued until next term.

Mrs. E. R. BURNS, wife of a prominent farmer of Elizaville Precinct, Fleming county, was dangerously and perhaps fatally wounded by a runaway horse Wednesday afternoon. The animal was frightened by a passing freight train and dashed away overturning the buggy, with the result of breaking her arm and badly bruising her head, besides injuring her internally. Her recovery is reported extremely doubtful.

KENTUCKY GOOD TEMPLARS.

Twenty third Annual Session of the Grand Lodge—Order Better Organized Than for Several Years.

The twenty-third annual session of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Good Templars was held in Louisville Tuesday and Wednesday. Chief Templar, R. S. Easton, of Spotsville, presided, and reported the order better organized than for several years.

The officers' stands were draped in mourning in honor of the late John B. Finch, who was Chief of the Right Worthy Grand Lodge.

The Hon. E. J. Miller and Mrs. A. A. Brookbank, Chief Templar and Vice Templar of the Indiana Grand Lodge, also Mrs. Sallie C. Jackson, of Indiana, were in attendance, and were received with the honors of the Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge degree was conferred on about forty persons who had not previously received it.

The Secretary and Treasurer's report was very interesting, and shows that during the past year seventy-seven new lodges were organized, thirty of which were by Bro. T. B. Demaree, of the National order. Two lodges were re-instated and fifty-nine were suspended. There are now in good standing 134 lodges with a membership of 6,358, a net gain of 1,405.

The Grand Lodge, which has for years been laboring under a heavy debt, has discharged nearly all of its obligations, and is now in excellent working order.

A new set of by-laws was adopted, and will be published in pamphlet form with the entire proceedings of this Grand Lodge session, for use by the members.

Miss Lulu Nield, of Altamont, addressed the Grand Lodge as a member and in behalf of the State Women's Christian Temperance Union, asking co-operation of the lodges in securing an amendment to the present local option law, so that the vote on the question of license or no license can be taken by counties.

The Finance Committee reported the statement of the Grand Secretary and Treasurer correct, and commended the system of conducting the business of the office; placed the salary of the Grand Chief Templar at $60 per month, and allows him half of the organization and re-organization fee, and $5 for each lodge he visits by invitation or by direction of the Executive Committee or Grand Secretary; and places the salary of the Secretary and Treasurer at $500 per year, and bond at $3,000.

By unanimous vote the next session of the Grand Lodge will be held at Litchfield.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand Chief Templar, Colonel S. B. Demaree, of College Hill; Grand Counselor, J. J. Rust, of Danville; Grand Vice Templar, Mrs. S. F. H. Tarrant, of Crab Orchard; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. S. Isabel Ward, of Henderson; Superintendent Juvenile Templars, Mrs. Lila Moore, of Owensboro.

JOHN M. GRESHAM, at the head of the local force who are engaged collecting material for a special edition of Perrin's State History for the eastern part of the State, is in Maysville in the interest of the forthcoming work.

THE grand jury is not in session to-day, having adjourned on account of the death of a nephew of G. W. Stiles, one of the members. The deceased was a son of Charles Stiles, and died yesterday near Shannon, at the age of twenty-one years.

THE Louisville Legion, State Guards, continues to knock out all competitors when it comes to fine drilling. At the recent military encampment at Chicago it was awarded first prize—$3,500—in the battalion drill. Louisville is justly proud of her "soldier boys."

Circuit Court Proceedings.

King & Fitzgerald were acquitted of the charge of selling liquor to a minor.

Will Chappell, Wallace Chappell, Thos. Tuggle and Dick Gaither were adjudged guilty of malicious destruction of property and fined $10 each. The offense was committed at a tollgate on the Mayslick and Mill Creek pike, and consisted partly in drawing a staple so as to allow their passing through the gate. The principal ground of defense was that the company had no right to collect toll.

County Court Proceedings.

Dr. James Shackelford was appointed guardian of Bertha Lee Moran, and executed bond with Thomas Downing surety.

A sale bill of the personal estate of James C. Savage, deceased, was filed and ordered recorded.

Amelia Bendel was appointed administratrix of D. F. Bendel, and executed bond with Fred Schatzmann and Joseph Schatzmann sureties. M. C. Russell, Geo. H. Helser, and Geo. J. Bendel were appointed appraisers.

In Excellent Condition.

The following letter received last evening is self-explanatory. It refers to Poyntz & Watson's bonded warehouse in the West End.

COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, 7TH DIST. OF KY.,
LEXINGTON, O. 10th 11th, 1887.

Messrs. Poyntz Brothers, Maysville, Ky.: Gentlemen—It is my pleasure to inform you that the special gaugers, who made the recent 5 per cent. gauge of the spirits in your warehouse, report having found the same in excellent condition. The spirits showed uniformly well with respect to wantage; the contents of the packages appeared to be well-cared for, and your warehouse was at a standard which I trust you will aim to keep as high in the future as in the past. Respectfully,
J. F. ROBINSON, Collector.
